Yoemen Host To Georgetown In Homecoming Game Friday

The unpredictable Cameron Yoemen eleven will be battling for life in Conference competition Friday night, when they host both ex-students of Yoe High School and the dark-horsed Georgetown Eagles.

Exes are expected to pour into the Yoe Athletic Field to witness the District 23-AA homecoming game between these two rivals.

The members of the senior class and faculty of Yoe High School have extended an invitation to all Ex's to visit the school during the day, attend the game and later visit the Homemaking Department to chat with former classmates and friends.

The Eagles will be bringing their eleven in an attempt to upset the Homecoming activities of Cameron, just as they nearly did two years ago, only to be slapped down by the Yoemen in the last second of the game, 14-12.

Last week the Yoemen were idle while the Eagles were edged by Belton. The Yoemen were victorious in their first district encounter.

Dr. William Finch To Speak At Methodist Church Homecoming

Preaching in Cameron's First Methodist Church on Sunday, Nov. 15, Dr. William C. Finch of Southern University, Georgetown will outline "The Strategy of a Christian in a Time of Crisis."

The university president this month will occupy pulpits of Methodist churches in Brownwood, Ballinger, Tyler, Port Arthur, Waco, Houston, Temple, and Winters.

In accenting the place of Southwestern in preparing men and women for Christian service, Dr. Finch recently pointed out that more than 25 per cent of his school's present enrollment now consists of ministerial students and those following a life-service curriculum. Five well-known bishops are graduates of the university.

Eleven Percent Of Community Chest Goes To Milk Fund

Robert D. Abel

When you give to the Cameron Community Chest 11 per cent of your donations goes to the Milk Fund. This fund is combined with the lunch fund to provide school lunches and milk for underprivileged children in the Cameron Public Schools.

This includes: Yoe High, Ada Henderson, O. J. Thomas, Clarkson and added this year, South Ward.

The cost of the school lunch is 14.5c and milk is 5.5c making a total cost of only 20c for a complete meal. The support given by the Milk Fund enables the School Cafeteria system to maintain this low price for lunches, since it does not have to absorb the total cost of the free lunches.

You help some unfortunate child have wholesome food to build a healthy body and sound mind when you give to the Milk Fund through the Cameron Community Chest. Please give enough.

First Southwest Castor Bean Plant To Open Here This Week

The first castor bean processing plant in the southwest is going into production this week at Cameron, Texas. Southland Cotton Oil Company, operators of the plant, have completed necessary modifications of their oil mill in Cameron for adaptation to castor bean processing, and will soon be processing the castor beans now being harvested on Texas farms.

The Cameron plant is the fourth such plant to process beans in the United States, the other three being owned by different companies in New Jersey and Calif. Castor bean production began in the United States in an appreciable quantity in 1951 when 63,000 acres were harvested from farms in Texas and Oklahoma. Prior to this time, practically all castor beans processed in the United States were imported from Brazil and India.

In 1951, Commodity Credit Corporation entered into private contracts with growers in Texas and Oklahoma for the production of Castor beans. In 1952, this program was continued and increased to 120,000 acres, and this year the estimated acreage is 125,000.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture began their program to encourage and increase the production of domestic castor beans because of the importance of castor oil in our national defense preparations, and because of the many new and important uses for castor oil. Castor oil and its derivatives are used in jet-engine lubricating oil and other aircraft lubricants, hydraulic fluids, greases, and plastic-coated combat wire, all of which are important for military and defense purposes. Castor oil is also used as a plasticizer in the manufacture of military fabrics and explosives. It is the principal source of raw material for use in the preparation of sebacic acid which is a basic ingredient for the synthesis of nylon plastic and special lubricants. Dehydrated castor oil — a chemical modification — is used in manufacture of varnishes, enamels, paints, electrical insulations, and other protective coatings. In the manufacture of enamels and lacquers, dehydrated castor oil is used in cases where color retention and film flexibility are important. The importance of castor oil in the chemical field is growing and there appears to be room for a large expansion in this field if supplies are available at stable prices. Sulphonated castor oil is used in the dyeing of fabrics to give clearer and brighter colors, and in manufacture of synthetic fibers. Castor oil is also used for medicinal purposes and in cosmetics.

The by-product of castor beans is castor pomace. It is the cake after the oil has been extracted, and is ground and sacked and sold as fertilizer. It contains approximately 5 1-2 nitrogen and is what is known as an organic fertilizer. It will provide a new source of fertilizer material for Texas farms at a comparatively low price. It is especially beneficial to soil needing humus. It has proved excellent as a plant food for vegetables, citrus plants and most leafy plants in Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas where it has been available previously.

The United States has been the world's leading importer and consumer of castor beans and oil. Oil imports reached a record high of 44,586 tons in 1951. Castor bean imports for the same year were 74,558 tons. The latest statistics show that imports during January-November 1952 on castor oil totaled 51,326 tons (a new record) and 61,010 tons of beans. The bridal bouquet was of a deep throated white orchid set atop a white bible showered with off-white ribbon and brown net and rosebuds. The bride carried out the tradition of something old, something new etc. She had a handkerchief owned by her grandmother since 1906 and the lovely white Bethlehem Bible was borrowed from a very dear friend.

Miss Barbara Walton, sister of the bride attended the bride as Maid of Honor. Miss Walton was dressed in a dress of pale blue moray, patterned after the bride's dress. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of pale yellow mums entwined with rainbow ribbon.

Eugene Smitherman served as best man. The groom and his attendant were dressed in dark suits.

Serving as usher were James Brock and Dean Haines.

Mrs. Leon Walton, mother of the bride, chose a black tissue faille dress accentuated with a large white pointed collar and her corsage was a lavender orchid. She wore black accessories.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Leon Walton of Cameron and Mr. L. L. Walton of Temple. She is a graduate of Yoe High School and attended Texas State College for Women. She is now employed with Newton Clinic in this city.

Mr. Barron is the son of the late John Barron and is a graduate of Yoe High School. He is a veteran of World War II and is now a Brand Inspector for the Central Texas Cattlemen's Association.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Barron will make their home on 19th street in Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Jackson, Jr. and family spent Sunday in Itasca visiting relatives.

The Little River Philosopher Hits on novel plan to solve the plight of busted cattlemen in this country.

Editor's note: The Little River Philosopher on his Johnson Grass farm at Marlow has a bright idea this week on the cattle situation. There's a flaw in it somewhere, but we haven't got time to figure it out.

Dear edita:

Everybody these days is worryin' about the price of cattle, it's sort of a depressin' thing, not only on the cattlemen but on everybody else, as a non-cattlemen gets to thinkin' about what has happened to the cattlemen and he gets to figurin' it could happen to him too and he starts clappin' down on his spendin' and before you know it business has begun to drag its feet.

Now I have been thinkin'. There's not much anybody can do about the price of cattle except deplore it, and cattlemen have already tried that and it doesn't help much.

On the other hand, lots of people have been figurin' out how maybe the government can buy high feed and sell it cheap to the cattlemen, just to keep them in business, but to a man that's out of money, there just ain't no such thing as cheap feed. When you're broke, a bowl of chili is about as far out of your reach as a steak.

Therefore, I have hit on a plan. Of course nobody wants the government to go any further in the hand-out business, nobody is askin' the government to buy up all the cattle and go in the ranchin' business, and nobody has figured out how the latter can be avoided if price supports are established. Also, the government is already too far in on the money-loanin' business.

Now my plan is to let the government go into the hay-loanin' business. Instead of loanin' me money to keep my cows alive this winter, why can't the government just loan me some hay?

After the government loans me the hay, I will know what to do with it, and after my cows make it through to winter, maybe enough of em will have passed on which, multiplied by the losses among all the other herds throughout the country, plus the extra meat Sec. Benson wants everybody to eat this year, will bring the price of cattle back up to where it belongs.

Me and the rest of the cattlemen will then owe the government some hay. Just when we can pay it back is hard to say, but so long as the mortgage is against the hay only, the situation won't get out of hand, and I can't see why it wouldn't be just as well for the government to show a hay deficit as a dollar deficit.

The first year we have plenty of rain and everybody has more hay than he knows what to do with, we could all pay the government back, and the government could then store the hay against the next drouth. I don't know how long it'll keep, but I know it'll keep better than butter, and the government's been storin' that for years.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Milam County Egg Marketing Meeting

J. D. Moore, County Agent There will be a meeting on "Marketing Quality Eggs" Tuesday night, November 10, at 7:30 p. m., at the Milam Coffee Shop in Cameron. The purpose of the meeting is to bring additional information to those producers already selling through the present program and interest others in need for realizing that their egg market is not necessarily the man who buys the farmers' eggs. Egg producers should understand that their eggs go many miles before being ultimately sold and that distribution, transportation and the time element are vitally important factors in the quality of the eggs consumed by the buying public.

Two local 4-H boys will give a team demonstration on Quality Eggs and Mr. F. Z. Beanblossom from A & M College will bring some colored slides and assist with the program. Refreshments will be served.

Housewife Happy for relief given at Boyce Clinic

A Milano woman, age 64, entered the Boyce Clinic with the following complaints: daily headaches (hadn't been free of headaches in several years) sinusitis and dizziness, no energy, tires easily, extreme nervousness accompanied by the feeling of ants crawling over her entire body.

X-rays revealed her causative element to be pressure at the base of the skull, cutting off the life given energy to the body. Corrective adjustments were started at once. She reported the other day that she is just feeling wonderful. Yes, this housewife found relief at this clinic. Why be sick? Investigate Chiropractic today.

Farmer knows today what good health is

A complete Spinal Examination was made and through our precision x-rays the cause of his trouble was located. The patient was told he could be helped. A health service was recommended and corrective adjustments were started.

In a short time this patient reported that his headaches, and backaches were completely gone and that he could work all day without becoming exhausted. In his own words - "I don't know what would have happened to me if it had not been for Chiropractic care. I recommend it to anyone."

Protect Health nature's way.

You cannot buy another life or another body or even another stomach or let.

Don't gamble with those you have. Protect them now while you may, and do it nature's way. Many diseases originate within the body. They are frequently caused by pinch nerves there they have to leave the spine.

The simplest and most permanent way to get rid of the disease is to remove the cause. The quickest and safest way to do this is to have the spine corrected.

Doctoring the effect and neglecting the cause often increases and perpetuates misery.

The intelligence that built your body in the first place, the nerve force that makes your eyes see, your heart beat, that heals broken bones, cuts and bruises, is the only power that can cure disease. And even this intelligence is helpless when its nerve channels are obstructed. Is Your Life Line Clear?

Cameron Business man Gets well at Boyce Clinic

A prominent business man, age 56, entered the Boyce Clinic for treatment. His entrance complaints were stiffness in neck, nagging backaches and high blood pressure.

A complete Chiropractic analysis was made - the cause was located through our precision x-rays and a service was recommended.

Corrective adjustments were started and in six weeks the neck and back pains vanished, his blood pressure is down and he states that he feels fine in all respects. Is your health failing? If so come in and discuss your health problems with us. We may be able to help you.

Adjustments remove asthmatic condition

A woman, age 42, came to this clinic with a severe asthmatic condition. These attacks would strike without warning and apparently anything and everything would bring about the spasmodic choking and gasping for breath. A complete x-ray and instrumental spinal analysis was made of this patient and the cause was located. x-rays revealed pressure on the nerves leading directly to the tiny air sacs in the lungs. The life given force was cut off.

A series of adjustments were started. The progress the first ten days was good, but slow. The attacks were milder and didn't last as long. In 4 weeks this patient reported that her asthmatic attacks have vanished - hasn't had an attack since October 10th. She is happy with her results. Chiropractic will get sick people well. Is your health failing? Why not try Chiropractic? It may help you.

Edkar Bivins Given Three Years In State Penitentiary

Monday, November 2, State's Attorney J. W. Miller submitted two cases to Judge O. D. Graham.

According to the State's Attorney, Edkar Bivins was charged with the burglary of the Ed Kohutek filling station. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three years in the State Penitentiary.

The case of Marion Louis Hicks was tried for forgery of a name on a teaching certificate. He pleaded guilty on the advice of the State appointed defense lawyer. His punishment was set at five years by Judge Graham. Upon making application on the suspended sentence law, the court suspended the sentence and placed Hicks on probation for a period of five years.

The case of the State of Texas vs. Gasto Reed held Wednesday in Judge Charles C. Smith, Jr., County Court, resulted in an acquittal. Reed was charged by a complaint by Highway Patrolman John Blansit with DWI.

Mrs. P. L. Caperton has returned from Big Spring where she visited her mother, Mrs. E. A. Mann, who is seriously ill in the Big Spring Hospital. Mrs. Mann will observe her 91st birthday in April.

secticides, herbicides, poisons and spray be properly labeled by the manufacturer, and if not, manufacturer be responsible. If poison so label.

5. We recommend that we increase our buying program twice its capacity.

6. We recommend the improvement program on rural roads be continued, with a stronger effort made to obtain more and better rural roads.

7. We recommend a program on soil and water conservation in the state of Texas, but with a reasonable cost to the tax payers.

8. We recommend that seed certification laws be improved, thus guaranteeing the farmers and ranchers a better quality of planting seed.

9. We recommend that the grading and stapling by the Smith-Doxley graders be improved, and, an investigation on difference in grades and staples after September 19, 1953.

10. We oppose the 17,910,000 acreage-cotton allotment, but we do favor the position of the American and Texas Farm Bureau Federation on the 21500,000 acreage cotton allotment for 1954.

11. We recommend a support price of 100 percent of parity on wheat, corn, cotton, peanuts, grain sorghums, small grains, U. S. No. 1 sweet potatoes, pecans, cotton seed, turkeys, wool, mohair, hogs, and a support price on No. 1 tomatoes, and U. S. No. 1 watermelons.

13. We recommend the continuation of the lunch room program with more surplus farm food commodities being distributed to this program.

14. We recommend the advertising campaign already begun advertising "Beef as a Bargain" which at the same time have a strict investigation of the difference in price from the producer to the consumer.

15. Since organized industry had a strong government support for "100 years", we the farmers and ranchers, of Milam County, desire the identical protection through legislation. We do not want it in the form of a dole; we want it at a market price. We want world trade not subsidy aid.

16. Since the tariff causes the farmers and ranchers to buy on a protected market and sell on a world market we recommend all tariff duties collected be used to increase the sale of farm commodities to foreign countries, all angles for increasing farm exports be explored.

17. We recommend the strict enforcement of our fish and game laws in the state of Texas.

18. We recommend the strict enforcement of our laws in control of predatory animals.

19. We reaffirm our position on the rural telephone improvement program.

20. We, the Milam County Farm Bureau, commend the National Cotton Council of America in its efforts to expand and develop new uses and markets for cotton, and further recommend that all possible support be given this council in carrying out its program of insuring a future for cotton as an agriculture product.

21. We favor war crop emergency laws at any time, if necessary. We favor war crop emergency prices if that is 100 percent of parity.

ported in 1952 amounted to 17,506 tons. This reveals that there is plenty of room for expansion in domestic castor bean production in the United States, since this year's production will be less than 40,000 tons of beans.

Castor beans are grown in most parts of Texas and Oklahoma, both on dryland and irrigated acreages. California, Arizona, New Mexico and Arkansas also have some production of castor beans, but on a much smaller scale than Texas. Production per acre ranges from 400 lbs. on poor land with small amount of rainfall up to over 2000 lbs. on irrigated land. The dryland production will vary with the fertility of the soil, just as cotton or most any other crop. This year growing conditions have been very favorable in most areas and a good harvest is being made.

The price to the farmer was supported this year at 9c per pound through the Commodity Credit Corporation. It is expected that castor beans will have a support price for 1954, although none has yet been announced.

There are several varieties of planting seed being used. The resistant type which is gathered in one harvest by mechanical harvesters. The crop has the advantages of being easy and cheap to grow, fitting well into rotations, being completely mechanized where necessary, providing good cash returns when given normal good care and leaving the soil in good condition.

The trend for the future is an increase in castor bean production and consumption. This is based on five related premises: (1) yields per acre will be increased as a result of both improved cultural methods and superior varieties and hybrids; (2) production costs will be lowered as a result of improved harvesting and hulling machinery; (3) marketing costs will be decreased through simpler procedures and larger volumes; (4) the cost of castor beans to the processor will decrease because of higher yields and lower production and marketing costs; (5) consumption of castor oil will increase, particularly where it is now prohibited because of cost.

The mill will be operating twenty-four hours, with three shifts. Approximately 30 people are employed at the plant.

A. L. Raymond is office manager and J. D. Tate is the plant superintendent.

Floyd Carpenter is manager of the plant.
